Improving or altering your home

Permission first

Your lease states you need the landlord's prior written consent to make or permit any alteration and you need to do this before any work starts.

If you fail to do this, you will be breaking the terms of your lease. Any future sale could be put at risk, and we could take legal proceedings against you, which could lead to you losing your home.

Permission needed

You can redecorate the inside of your flat and replace some fittings within your property without our permission. However, other alterations may need our consent.

These include:

- Works affecting communal services or the structure of the building
- Installing or upgrading central heating
- Installation of replacement windows
- Any change to the internal layout of your property including fitting a new kitchen or bathroom
- Alterations to any services, i.e. electrics, gas, drainage, water

- Erection of a conservatory
- Erection of a TV aerial.

If you are thinking of doing this kind of work inside your home, or any alterations that affect your property, you must get our written permission before you go ahead.

You may also need to get Building Control approval and/or planning permission.

Please consult the council before installing laminate or hard wood flooring. Certain floor coverings can cause a nuisance for other residents and may be in breach of your lease.

How did you do?

If you said yes to them all you are helping yourself to reduce condensation and avoiding damp and mould in your home.

Six or more yes answers is a great start. Try and see if you can say yes to a few more.

Under six, it would be great if you could attempt a few more. These measures can really help to keep your home healthy.

How can we get in touch with you?

As you are a leaseholder we have a postal address we can write to, but if you have tenants, have we got the address you live at to send you invoices and notices?

Do we have a phone number we can call if there is an emergency at your leasehold flat, this doesn't have to be you but someone who can give us access to the flat?

We are about to move our leasehold information to a new housing database and it would be great if we could start off with up-to-date contact information for all our leaseholders.

Email your details to us at leasehold.services@crawley.gov.uk with Contact as the subject line, send them to Leasehold Services, Crawley Borough Council, Town Hall, The Boulevard, Crawley, RH10 1UZ or text 07393 761666 –

Fly-tipping

Leaving unwanted items in drying areas, bin stores or other communal areas is fly-tipping.

It's unsightly and unsafe as it could contain toxic or dangerous material or have sharp edges. Fly-tipping can be a fire hazard as well as potentially blocking fire escape routes.

In August, our team cleared more than 11 tonnes from communal areas. This must be paid for by all tenants and leaseholders, unless we have proof who left it and in these cases we will recharge the clearance costs to them.

If you are getting new furniture or appliances, make use of any options where they will take away the old one.
